Robert Y. Davis Chosen P. T. A. Radio Director

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Ohio Parent-Teachers' Congress was held at the Hotel Gibson in Cincinnati. The convention was in session on October 10, 11, and 12, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. It was held to discuss different problems common to parents and teachers. Many speakers talked at banquets and several people were elected to positions.

Mr. Robert Y. Davis of Johnny Appleseed was elected for the new state radio director. He will direct the radio activities for the Congress of Parent-Teachers' Association. People of the local groups of the P.-T. A. work with him. Mr. Davis will work on a state-wide radio program and he will be quite busy for the next two months working on these problems. He met a number of personalities while in Cincinnati, including the Director of Education in Ohio, the Superintendent of Schools of Cincinnati, and others.

There were about 300 delegates and members from the P.-T. A.'s of Richland County. Two thousand delegates and members attended this meeting.

Press to Compete In Three Contests

During the next few months, the Johnny Appleseed Press is going to be entered in some contests for papers from high schools all over the country.

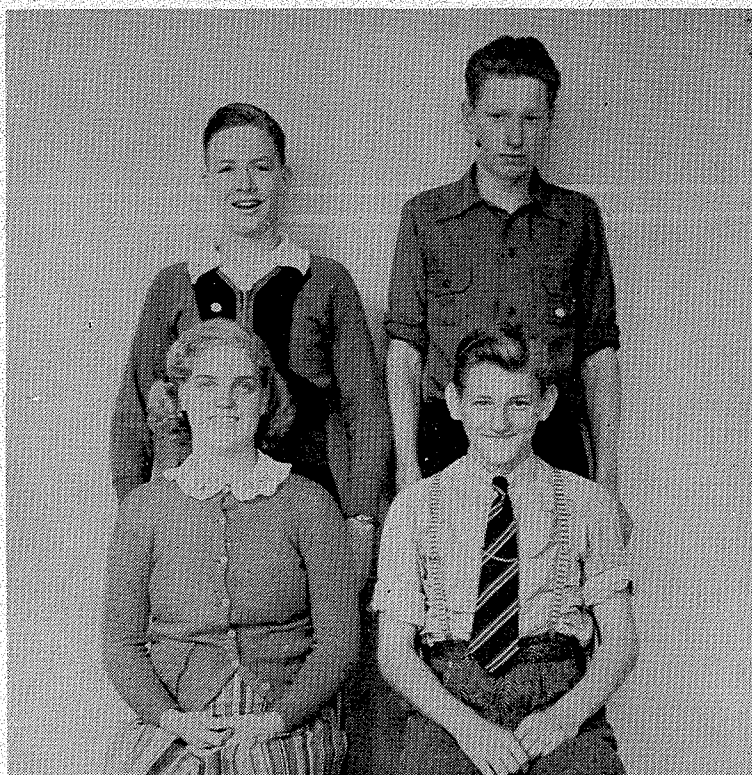

It has been entered in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association sponsored by the Columbia University. In this issue on the editorial page we have the insignia for our paper from this association.

In late March, a convention will be held and judges will decide on the best paper from the different schools. The Appleseed Press's published issues will be sent to this convention. The deadline is January 15, when all of the papers must be in to be judged.

The judges will rate the paper by its appearance, general make-up, news and detail composition. They will see if the editorials are worthwhile and educational, and how the advertising is arranged.

The teachers who chaperoned these dances were Miss Virginia Stark, Miss Margaret Wheeler, Wheeler, Harold Ramsey, W. B. Huber, J. J. Thoms, Miss Dorothy Moser, Miss Ellena Percy, Nelson Neff and Paul Cameron.

The pupils of Johnny Appleseed wish to thank all parents, teachers and pupils who helped make these dances possible.

Orchestra Prepares Musical Numbers

At the present time, the last of the string instruments (base, cello and violas) have been loaned out to students of Johnny Appleseed. There is also a waiting list for these instruments, which will be taken care of as soon as possible.

The instrumentation of the Appleseed orchestra is as follows: 23 violins, 2 violas, 4 'cellos, 2 string bases, 6 clarinets, 2 saxophones, 6 trumpets, 1 trombone, and 3 drums.

The orchestra is now working on selections from "Tannhauser" by Wagner, "At the Spinet" by Clarke, "Atilla," a Hungarian adventure, by Keroly.

Mr. S. K. Jorgensen, the director of the orchestra, states that the Johnny Appleseed orchestra is the best of all orchestras of the Mansfield Public Schools this year.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB FORMED AT Y.M.C.A.

Classes for students interested in photography have been formed within the last few weeks at the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. The pupils are learning how to develop, print, and enlarge pictures. Also, Mr. McCullough, the instructor, is teaching them how to take better pictures. No class has been formed as yet for boys, but if they are interested, Mr. McCullough said that it could easily be arranged.

All students over fourteen have their lessons on Wednesday at the Y.M.C.A. The pupils under fourteen meet at the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday. No cost or admission fee is charged and the pupils are permitted to bring their own films if they want them developed.

Band Makes Debut At Football Game

The Johnny Appleseed Band made its first public appearance Friday, October 19, when it played at the Appleseed-Simpson football game. This organization is now working toward bringing its instrumentation up to a higher standard.

There is room at the present for students wanting to become members of this organization and also classes are being held for instruction on various instruments, especially bass and baritone, for either individual or group work, on Monday and Thursday. If any students are interested, please leave your name at the office or see Mr. J. Merton Holcombe, the director of the band, in Room 107, on either Monday or Thursday.

The band now has entirely new music, which proves more interesting to the members.

Art Club Members Work on Projects

The Art Club has been working very hard these last weeks, each group in its own division.

The clay modeling class has almost finished one project, a clay vase.

The arts and crafts class has been making book ends, plaques and various other ornaments. The book ends are made out of tapped metals on wood and then painted.

The sketching class can be seen all over the building, inside and out. They have the convenience of new sketching benches which were made for them by the shop. They have been sketching all parts of the building and outside scenery.

Library Adopts New Pass System

Tuesday morning, September 24, the library adopted a new pass system. Study hall teachers still regulate the flow of pupils to the library during study hall periods but during E.C.A. period, pupils must have a definite assignment at the library or they will be kept in their home rooms.

The teacher who gives the assignment writes it on a slip of paper and gives it to the pupil who shows it to his or her home room teacher. The librarian, Miss Lenora Prosser, then signs the slip.

SAVE SALES TAX STAMPS BUY GLASSES FOR NEEDY

In order to help buy glasses for the unfortunate children that need them, Mr. Rohlder has announced that each home room is to have a small box to set in some convenient place for the students that wish to donate sales tax stamps. Each home room teacher is to appoint a student from her room to act as a representative for the room.

Miss Beck is now acting as head chairman for Johnny Appleseed Junior High and will attend each meeting of the American Red Cross to represent our school. The Red Cross workers will sort and count the stamps.

COOKING CLASSES PLAN NEW COURSE OF STUDY

Consumer buying is to be the study of this term for the ninth grade home economics class. The dinette of the food laboratory is rather bare of decorations and the class has been learning how to bake. Different kinds of cookies, cakes and pies have been made. So, to furnish the dinette, they have decided to have a bake sale at one of the local markets and use the profit for the decorations.

A few of the home economics periods will be used for the class and its instructor, Miss Tucker, to go to the shops to "bargain" and "buy."

Where Do You Eat Your Lunch?

By DOT ARLIN

Our school has a cafeteria which was built especially for the pupils to buy their lunches at reasonable prices and to get a well balanced meal for their money.

Of course, there are pupils who go home for lunch and others who buy their noon meal at places outside of the school.

If you bring money to buy your lunch, the school urges you to buy it in the cafeteria. The school board has hired excellent cooks and a dietician who plans the meals so that they are healthful.

When you buy your lunch at places away from the school, you probably do not get as well-planned a meal for your money as you do in the cafeteria.

Appleseed Needs a School Song

By ANNA MARIE FISCHER

This editorial is for all Appleseed students, but especially for the music-minded ones. We are trying to get a school song, and it is up to us to write it.

Of course, we can't all be second Steven Fosters or anything like that, but we can try to write a song that will portray our school spirit now and in the future. One of the greatest honors a student could have would be to have his song chosen as the one to represent our school.

Miss Percy is anxiously waiting for some entries, so let's get busy and see what we can do.

Am I Blushing?

When Lynn Decker dropped his books at Mr. Davis' feet (accidentally, of course).

Miss Herring, when she got in the wrong study hall.

When Joe Smith came to school with lipstick on his shirt.

Helen Hunt, when she swallowed her gum in A Capella Choir.

When David Twitchell had to stand up in study hall for talking.

When some teachers found Jean Hugo's algebra book which contained some very personal notes from Betty Pugh.

When Marilyn Larson's slip strap broke and she had to go to the board in front of the class with her slip showing.

When Mr. Cameron asked Shirley Boock which position she wanted to play on the football team.

When Lloyd Shawber's sister calls him "Bubby."

When Jane Gibbs saw the second paragraph in "Just Kids at School."

When Jack German brought Mary Margaret Young's gym stockings in the room and asked if anybody lost them.

The Duke Decides

JOHN L. TUNIS

By Anne Ford

James Wellington, better known as "The Iron Duke" was starting his senior year at Harvard as captain of the track team. The spring before, Duke had broken the inter-collegiate two-mile record in the meet with Yale, Harvard's bitterest rival. After, he had been elected captain. The coach, "Slips" Ellis, had developed Duke's running from his sophomore year. Now, he was supposed to make a speech to the freshmen. He was scheduled to speak after "Slips." "Slips" wasn't there that night. When the Duke got up to talk, he noticed a peculiar silence in the hall when he mentioned "Slips" name. Bewildered, he was taken aside by the director of athletics, Mr. Horton. When they were alone, Mr. Horton told Duke that "Slips" had left Harvard.

The coach that took his place was called Dutch Coffman. He was an entirely different type of man from "Slips." Duke didn't like him, but he produced a fine team.

In the winter, Dutch entered the Duke in the Studebaker mile, a great amateur event which took place in New York. A few days before the big race, he became ill. He didn't feel like running—but read for yourselves about his exciting adventures, including his being a member of an Olympic team.

MODERN GRAMMAR

A girl was asked to parse the word "kiss," and this was the result: This word is a noun, but it is usually used as a conjunction. It is never declined and is more common than proper. It is not very singular, in that it is generally used in the plural. It agrees with me.

Three Girls, One Boy Earn Major Positions on Staff

MISS SHAFFER CHOOSES EDITORIAL STAFF

The nine major positions on the editorial staff this year were chosen by Miss Shaffer, adviser, and were selected on the basis of the number and quality of articles submitted during an allotted time. The staff is attempting to maintain the same high standing of the "Appleseed Press" as papers of other schools of its size have achieved.

The highest position was that of editor-in-chief, attained by Dorothy Arlin, Room 104. She has proved to be one of the best and most interested persons on the staff. Anna Marie Fischer, a student from Room 104, was chosen assistant editor and is assigned various tasks toward helping to make the paper a success and managing the rest of the staff.

The sports editor, Bob Black, is to cover all sports along with the other boy reporters. The assistant sports editor, Eugene Foster, is also assigned to help to plan the sports page. The girls' sports editor and assistant are Janice Snider and Shirley Boock. They "cover" all the G.A.A. news, leaders' club, trophy case exhibits, pep meetings and various other girls' sports.

Mary Norton, society editor, Room 105, writes up all parties and social happenings. She also writes several other bits of news regularly, including orchestra, glee club, A Capella choir and ninth-grade music. Ann Gilbert, her assistant, helps to gather all important news pertaining to society and is a reliable worker on other news.

Dwight Miller, art editor, draws the pictures for various columns and cuts them in linoleum so they can be printed. He has contributed four such cuts so far this year.

Business Staff Selected By Number Ads Sold

Mr. Neff, business adviser, selected the persons to fill the major positions on the business staff. This was done entirely on the basis of the number of ads sold. Bob Fox, who was chosen business manager, sold an average of thirty-nine inches of advertising per issue. Mary Bushnell, assistant business manager, sold twenty-five inches per issue. Next, in order of ads sold, were Virginia Shambaugh, who was given the position of exchange manager, David Carver, circulation manager, and Bill Ferguson and Davis Sweet, assistant circulation managers.

Salesmen of the staff are listed on the editorial page.

Down in the equipment room, or out on the practice field after school, you will notice young men in street clothes working diligently taking attendance, sorting equipment or cleaning up the floor.

These are the football managers earning their letters. The managers are primarily boys who cannot partake in athletics because of physical defects. They are the little men behind the scenes.

The managers are James Shriver, Jimmie Beal, Chuck Sauder, Bill Nixon, and Dwight Miller.

Jack Leonard Names Team

On Wednesday, September 25, the student body of Johnny Appleseed chose a name for their athletic teams. The name decided on was the "Pioneers." It was handed in at the earliest date by Jack Leonard, 9B-7 student.

The students had three days to submit titles in the contest and on Friday, the committee in charge, which consisted of Mr. Huber, Miss Strauch, Miss Garner, Mr. Thoms, and Mr. Cameron, chose six of the names. They were "Pioneers," "Little Giants," "Seedlings," "Slippery Seeds," "Minute Men," "Travelers." These were announced over the radio and each room voted. The "Pioneers" received the majority of votes.

Janet Perez, Joan Leppert, and Clare Hamlin entered the winning title at a later date.

Managers Chosen For Tournaments

This year, the seventh, eighth and ninth grade girls' physical activities are somewhat different from last year. Miss Garner has arranged for intramural tournaments in volleyball, soccer and bounce ball.

The managers of the volleyball teams are Katherine Schaller, Nancy Leonard, Mary Lou Kubie, Mary Alice Spring, Janice McMichael and Jeanne Hugo of the ninth grade.

There are two groups of soccer, including the eighth and ninth grades. The following people are managers of the ninth grade soccer teams: Janice Snider, Peggy Hess, Dorothy Arlin and Mary Bushnell. The eighth grade soccer managers are Helen Pecht, Marjorie Shoup, Joan Kullman and Rosemary Leonard.

Bounce ball is the main event in the seventh grades and parts of the eighth. The seventh grade bounce ball managers are Mary Papay, Birdie Kevey, Hazel Hockett, and Carol Goettinger.

The eighth grade bounce ball managers are Anne Ford, Joanne Banks, Janet Banks, and Lola Williams.

First Pep Meeting A Howling Success

The students of Johnny Appleseed held their first "Pep" meeting, October 18, the third period. The meeting started with a few cheers. After that, Mr. Davis, Miss Wheeler, Mr. Neff, Bob Morehead and Mr. Cameron were introduced and spoke briefly.

Simpson Wins In First Game

An estimated 3,000 sport fans saw John Simpson edge out Johnny Appleseed Friday night, October 18, at Stadium Field with a score of 6 to 0.

Carl Schaffer took Ed Symstick's pass from the 18-yard line to go over Appleseed's goal line early in the fourth period. Symstick's placekick was wild and the score remained 6-0 for the rest of the game.

The Appleseed Pioneers took command of the situation on the opening kickoff. They took the ball on their own 21-yard line and two first downs took them to Simpson's 46-yard line. Then, they were put back 15 yards for a penalty and this ended their drive.

Early in the third period, Kinkel made a spectacular 80-yard run as he intercepted a pass on his own 20 and sprinted 80 yards for a score, but it didn't count, for one of the Appleseed players was charged with clipping. Appleseed lost the ball on a few downs and that was the Pioneers' last serious threat.

Both teams were praised and it looks like the Junior Highs have some good material for future Senior High School teams.

Appleseed gained three first downs and Simpson, nine. Appleseed lost 55 yards on penalties and Simpson, 45.

The line-up was as follows:

APPLESEED	SIMPSON

The purpose of the club is to develop a clean and helpful sport and hobby for future years. The participants are required to have their own bows and arrows.

It's All In the State of Mind

If you think you are outclassed, you are. You've got to think to rise.

You've got to be sure of your self before you can ever win a prize.

Life's battles don't always go to the stronger or faster man.

But sooner or later the man who wins is the fellow who thinks he can!

Pioneers Tie Galion Team

The boys of Appleseed battled a heavier Galion outfit to a tie, 0 to 0, Wednesday, October 16. The Pioneers missed a scoring chance in the first period when Roush, over anxious, dropped a pass. Then Lee Morehead intercepted a pass and ran back 30 yards. Late in the fourth quarter, Beckel got away for 60 yards but was nailed by Stoner on the 20. The hard-hitting Galion club held them and the game ended.

The lineups were:

The Chief Scout of America

By BOB CUPP

The Boy Scouts are an institution so much a part of our daily life that we can scarcely believe that they were not always here. Yet about 30 years ago, the scouts were organized for the first time in an orderly manner under one man. This man, who is still our chief scout executive, is James E. West. He has been physically handicapped most of his life and is still forced to use a cane or crutches.

This man, who inspires and leads a million boys, spent his boyhood in an orphanage in Washington, D. C. Here, he became lame from a tubercular hip and was not able to do the things that the rest of the boys could do. Soon, he was the oldest boy at the institution and began to help the matron and was paid a small salary. The library at the orphanage was usually locked, but as Jim West was so fond of reading, he asked for the books to be made available to all. He catalogued them and, finding most of the children were not interested in reading, he offered to pay them one cent out of his wages for every book they read. This offer failed to bring results, so he asked permission for readers to sit up an extra hour in the evening. His scheme worked. He got permission to go to the public school and made his way through by working at the orphanage in the evenings. He graduated from high school at 19.

His leadership of the orphanage children had made him a good mixer and while in school, he was the editor of the school paper, manager of the football team and school librarian, besides taking the duties of a night watchman. Through the Y.M.C.A., where he did secretarial work, he found a chance to read law with an attorney. He then entered the National University Law School where he completed his work and at the age of 25 passed his examination.

He secured an appointment to the Board of Pensions and was later made assistant attorney in the Department of the Interior.

In the next six years, he served in many capacities in other activities. It was he who was influential in getting Washington its first Children's Court. In 1909, James West was asked to become secretary for the newly organized scout movement as we know it today.

By much thought and effort, American scouting has become thoroughly democratic. Its membership is drawn from every race and creed that go to make up our country. Working tirelessly, West prepared the material for the scout handbook and up to date, more than six million copies have been sold.

He is also editor of Boy's Life magazine. At the New York World's Fair, James C. West stood on crutches, facing a gathering of 63,600 boys, members of an organization he had been instrumental in shaping. With such an example of perseverance and rising above difficulties, the Boy Scouts are bound to succeed under his leadership.

Since the last issue of the school paper, the following people have been elected to represent the 9B-6 class, Home Room 215: President, Robert Miller; vice president, Juanita Hillman; secretary, Roberta Lemley; treasurer, Betty Glenn.

Various Activities Prove To Be Aids to Education

In connection to the pictures on the opposite page, this feature on extra curricular activities was written to acquaint the public with some of the activities which our students take part in besides ordinary class work.

The following description is written in order of the occurrence of the pictures on the opposite page.

Dramatics—The dramatics classes under the instruction of Miss Seybold are formed to give the students of the classes a chance to learn the principles of dramatics and to appear in plays to gain some practical experience.

Choir—The choir is directed by Mr. Derr. There is both an A Capella choir and a girls' glee club that prepare programs to present to the public at various times throughout the school year. This department is represented by a picture of the choir.

Cheerleaders—The cheerleaders were chosen after tryouts in the gymnasium at noon. These leaders will perform their duties during the whole school year. Leaders for the 1940-41 season are, from left to right, Bud Crum, Shirley Boock, head cheerleader; Bill Ingram, Jean Johnson, Mary Bushnell, Anne Ford, and Anna Marie Fisher.

Art Club—The art club is advised by Miss Stark. The class of artists is headed by Mary Bushnell, and the class hopes to make many different projects by the time school is out. In the picture, we see different members of the club sketching the building, with a close-up of the result.

Hobby Club—This club was formed by the students of 103 with Miss Strauch as its adviser. The meetings consist of discussions of hobbies and displays such as the one shown in the picture.

Archery—A recently formed archery club under the supervision of Mr. Davis is a feature of our extra curricular activities. The officers are Robert Black, Dick James, and John Colby, shown in the next snapshot.

Instrumental Instruction—Mr. Holcombe and Mr. Jorgenson are having instructional classes to train pupils for orchestra and band. Mr. Holcombe is now giving lessons in all band work, beginners and advanced. Mr. Jorgensen is teaching three girls cello and also has a violin group and a trio. The aim of this instruction is to give lessons to the students so that they may gain practical experience.

Band—The band meets twice a week, Monday and Thursday, the third period. Mr. Holcombe directs the band and the officers are Charles Jones, captain; George Vawter, sergeant; Delores Faust, Mary Margaret Young and Maxine Stevens, sergeants.

Orchestra—Pupils meet the third period Tuesday and Friday for orchestral instruction by Mr. Jorgensen. The main idea is to gain practical experience and to have a good time while doing it.

G.A.A.—The Girls' Athletic Association is supervised by Miss Garner, the new physical education teacher for girls. Janice Snider is president, Margaret Walery is treasurer, and Peggy Hess is secretary. This organization strives to further athletic activities among the girls. The girls' leaders, another group, is for the purpose of encouraging the girls to keep high scholastic ratings.

Fads and Fashions

By PEGGY FOLTZ

From coast to coast, crisp blouses with trim skirts and separate jackets or sweaters will be accepted uniforms among well-dressed school girls.

The camel's hair coat with its zip-in lining will be in favor for seasons to come. For the football games a "butterball" lambskin jacket lined in wool plaid with a plaid skirt to match will be as exciting as a touchdown.

A new sophisticated idea is the back-buttoned dirndl jumper of velveteen in black, tartan green, winter berry wine, or navy with a glen plaid skirt of a super-light-weight wool in colors to blend.

Twin-tone sets with contrasting fronts and backs in both sweaters are very fashionable in tartan green and coffee brown. Have you seen the new "Boy Coats" made of sweatshirting in the shades of tartan, red, field green and many other bright colors? These are also initialed. The new long-sleeved flannel blouses are initialed on the pockets or sleeves. Clever, don't you think?

Just Kids at School

Who is the little ninth grader who always has to check his homework with other pupils? He's small for his age, has blue eyes, and brown hair. He's on the Editorial Staff and gets grades he can brag about. He hasn't any girl friends right now but he lives on Marion Avenue. If anybody's interested - - - ?

This girl has brown hair and blue eyes. She's in Leaders' Club, G.A.A., Choir, Business Staff, has her emblem from G.A.A. and is president of the Art Club. She has a swell personality and—well, you've probably guessed her by now.

What ninth grade boy in 212 flirts with all the girls? He is an excellent singer and sings alto in the Choir. He used to write letters to a girl but he doesn't any more. He rides his bicycle to school most of the time. He spends his vacation at the lake.

Exchange News

By JOYCE HUBBS

Among the papers received by our exchange editor this month were the "Libby News," the "Roosevelt Reflector," "John Simpson Times," and the "Hyphonerian."

We see by the "Hyphonerian" that Lucille Calver, formerly of Appleseed, has become a 10-B cheerleader at Senior High. Lucille Chesrown, Margie McClure, Doris Scisinger, Betty Smart, and Lois Wappner, all former Appleseeders, were chosen Student Leaders by Miss Snyder.

In the "Roosevelt Reflector" there is a column called "They'll Never Get to Heaven, If (?) " designed to tell readers of their shortcomings and to give advice on correcting them.

This issue of the "Simpson Times" features a story written by Venetia Wills, an English refugee. In it she describes her trip to America. She is a ninth grade student at Simpson and is a regular member of the editorial staff.

The following "Sonnet of a Junior High Girl" was found in the "Libby News." Wonder if it applies to Appleseed girls, too?
"I'm a girl from Junior High;
Neither fresh nor neither shy;
At my studies I'll ne'er say die;
And if I'm late, oh how I'll fly,
Scold me don't, I'll surely cry,
So praise me and I'll try and try."
