8th Grade Leads In Honor Roll For First Term

Of the fourteen students from Johnny Appleseed earning places on the Honor Roll for the first six weeks this year, there were three seventh graders, seven eighth graders, and four ninth graders. Looking over the total number, we see that there are seven girls and seven boys with the required A's in major subjects which gains for them an Honor Roll rating.

Those who receive all A's and B's in their major subjects are placed on the Honorable Mention list. The ninth grade seems to have the largest majority for the first term.

A student may get a C. and still be given Special Recognition. The seventh graders are leading in this division.

SEVENTH GRADE Honor Roll

Robert Oliver, Nancy Giles, Anne Tracy.

Honorable Mention

William Ingram, George Frank, George Gernhardt, Donald Richardson, Dale Batzell, William Marlow, Robert Fox, Richard Hosler, Ernest Pennell, Stanley Baney, Russell Stuckey, John Rench.

Queer Creatures Roam The Halls At Hallowe'en Party

Pupils of Johnny Appleseed enjoyed a full evening of entertainment at the Halloween Party. The parade of ghosts and goblins was held on Wednesday evening, October 30, under the general supervision of Mr. Rohleder. A very important guest was Mr. W. L. Miller, Superintendent of Schools.

Several Committees were responsible for the program of the evening. These were composed of the Disciplinary and Chaperon Committee, Entertainment, Prizes and Judges, Stunts, The Grand March and Decorations. On the Chaperon committee were: J. J. Thoms, chairman; Dortha Shaffer, Harold Ramsey, Ellena Percy, Dorthy Moser, Nellie McIlvaine.

Committee Presents Design Of New Seal for Appleseed

Shown above is the new seal designed by George Loesch and Bob Cupp which has been adopted for Appleseed. The meaning and significance is outlined below.

We present to you the seal of Johnny Appleseed Junior High School.

We see in the lower background of our seal a representation of our school building. In design, it is in keeping with the progress of our modern times. In construction and in usefulness, it is sufficient and adequate for our various school activities.

We see near the top of our seal the date, 1940, the year we dedicated our building to its intended purpose.

We see in the center of our seal, the eternal Torch of Knowledge which is held high in the firm and steady Grasp of Fundamental Values. The Torch is illuminating the Pages of Life with the enlightening Rays of Wisdom; and it is shining with particular brightness on these pages marked J and A which stand for our brief, and beautiful experiences at Johnny Appleseed.

We see at either side of our seal, an apple tree. These are dedicated to the memory of the gentle Johnny Appleseed, after whom our school was named, for whom we have the deepest gratitude for his unselfish and Christian service to Humanity.

The seal in the original has two colors, the maroon and the gold, our school colors. These represent the mutual understanding and unity which exists in our school between the teachers and students.

And finally, we see our seal as a whole in which its various parts are in quiet balance and perfect harmony, a true symbol of our great faith in Education as a Preserver of Democracy and a Defender of God and our Country. Presented by the Committee:

Virginia Stark, chairman
Harold Ramsey

Holiday Observed With Program In Assembly

An assembly was held Monday morning, November 11, in the third period, to celebrate Armistice Day.

Mr. John F. Correll acted as master of ceremonies. Mrs. Milo Heiber, president of the Mansfield Parent Teachers Association Council, was a welcome guest at this program commemorating the signing of the Armistice treaty 22 years ago in Versailles, France, at the end of the World War.

In Mr. W. L. Miller's address he emphasized the following text, "Commandments of Good Citizenship:"

1. Thou shalt put only good and worthy men into positions of power. Good laws may be in need of good men, but good men never are in need of good laws.
2. Thou shalt enact just and equal laws.
3. Thou shalt enforce the laws upon all alike, without fear or favor and without delay.
4. Thou shalt revere and obey all laws as the political religion of the nation.
5. Thou shalt learn to think straight, or, to think straight

Girl Scouts Honor Founder, Conduct Special Services

The week of October twenty-first to the twenty-seventh was especially honored by Girl Scouts. This week was set aside because it was during that week that the birthday anniversary of Juliette Low, the founder of Girl Scouts, occurred.

The main event of the week was a talk Wednesday evening, October 23 at 7:45 at the Park Avenue Baptist Church by Miss Oleda Schrottkey, who is the dramatic advisor of the national Girl Scout organization in New York. Members and their parents attended along with the Girl Scouts leaders. A luncheon was given for Miss Schrottkey on Wednesday noon by

Students Practice Voting At School on Election Day

The students of Johnny Appleseed held their own presidential election on Tuesday, November 5, in the third period.

The main reason for this election was so that it would be good training for the students for citizenship.

The students wrote their choices on ballots and representatives from each home room took them to the counting room.

The official tabulators were George Erich, David Stall, Eugene Theessen, Hugh Eyerly, Norma Young, Barbara Mylinger, Tommy Daum and Donald McCreedy. The teachers were Mr. R. Y. Davis, Mr. W. B. Huber, and Mr. G. G. Rohleder.

Professor Lothar Wilnot, official analyzer, was Robert Black.

Mr. Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential candidate, defeated President Roosevelt by electoral votes, but President Roosevelt led in the popular votes. Mr. John W. Bricker, Ohio governor, defeated Mr. Martin L. Davey, Democratic candidate for governor.

In the electoral votes, Mr. Willkie received 275 votes and President Roosevelt received 250 votes. In the popular votes Mr. Willkie got 292 votes and President Roosevelt, 294 votes; and Mr. Bricker received 393 votes and Mr. Davey 172 votes.

In the national election President

Roosevelt was re-elected for the position of President of the United States.

the leaders and workers in the troops. Miss Schrottky is a member of the New York Story Telling League. She was the former dramatic director at Mount Holyoke College.

On Sunday morning, October twenty-seventh, the Girl Scouts met with a leader in front of a church and attended services in a group. All the members were urged to wear their uniforms during the week following, October 27 to November 2, which was designated as Girl Scout Week.

Each day in Girl Scout Week has special significance, as follows:

October 27—Wear uniforms to church.

October 28—Homemaking Day.

October 29—Arts and Crafts Day.

October 30—Out of Doors' Day.

October 31—Friendship Day.

November 1—Citizenship Day.

November 2—Health and Safety Day.

Each Girl Scout was supposed to do something on each day that had something to do with the name of the day.

Students See Animal Exhibit

Friday, November 8, during the eighth period, the United States Bureau of Zoology featured in our auditorium a collection of natural and imported animals, which included a kangaroo from Australia, some prairie dogs from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, some horned toads from Texas, a mother and baby rhesus monkey from India, Agoutis, Popeye the Sailor's Jeep from North America, a performing dog, some birds that did tricks and other attractions.

This kind of a performance is given by the government to increase the interest in natural history and to raise funds to preserve our wild life.

Junior Red Cross Formed At School

The first meeting of the Junior Red Cross of Johnny Appleseed was held November 5 in room 102.

The meeting was in charge of Miss Beck, the counselor. Nominations were held for president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

By majority vote, Helen Pecht was elected president; Peggy Hess, vice president; Joan Thrutchley, secretary; and Robert Wilging, treasurer. The representative to the council is Virginia Wagner.

The present purpose of the organization is to collect tax stamps to be used for buying glasses for the needy children.

New Drapes Adorn Office Windows

The Johnny Appleseed Administration Office has new draperies up at the windows. They arrived Monday, October 21.

They have a dark brown background with a chain leaf design of light brown with dark brown lines. There is a row of stripes down the center of the drapes of three shades of gray, white, and yellow. They are tied back with the same materials and are hung with chromium and silver rods with an arrow design.

Two attractive artistic vases adorn the window sills, one is in the main office. These were contributed to the office by Mr. Rohleder.

School Pride

By BOB CUPP

The majority in any student body have a strong sense of loyalty for the school they represent and naturally uphold it. This pride and loyalty is a fine thing and leads to a good school spirit and cooperation in every activity.

We, as pupils of the new Johnny Appleseed School, are justly proud of our building, our teaching staff, our program of study and extra curricular activities. Our parents and the school authorities of Mansfield have worked hard to give us these advantages and are willingly making sacrifices so we may enjoy them.

The least we can do to show our appreciation is to guard against such destruction as took place recently at our school building, when windows were broken and damage done to the interior by rocks thrown from the outside. According to the report of the police, who were called when the wreckage was discovered, this was not the result of a Halloween prank or an unintentional accident. There is a sharp boundary line between harmless fun and deliberate lawlessness. A spirit of this kind is an example of that shown in many parts of the world today, but has no place in America.

Dramatic Class Presents Play

A Thanksgiving play, "John Alden by Request," was given this morning the third period in assembly by the members of one of the dramatic classes, under the direction of Miss Louise Seyold.

The cast was made up of Joan Thrutchley as Mary Royal, Catherine Caughman as Lou Phelps, Joyce Yargar as Jane Hillyer, Joanne Solomon, as Della Leeds; Don Hahne as Russel Dodge, Peter Black as George Dix, Dave Copper as Oliver Hempstead, Bud Porter as Bob Golden. The play was based on Longfellow's "Courtship of Miles Standish."

FACULTY MEMBERS LISTEN TO LOTTERY

Several of the faculty members of Johnny Appleseed were particularly interested in the draft lottery returns which were tuned in at noon on Tuesday, October 29, since they were eligible. Those teachers were Mr. Paul Cameron, Mr. John Thoms, Mr. Harold Ramsey, Mr. Nelson Neff and Mr. Robert Davis.

Since these teachers are all married and have dependents, it is doubtful if they will be called to service.

School Eligible For Inspection Granting Charter

After the Ohio State educators have inspected Johnny Appleseed, they will make out a charter.

There are four grades of charters and our school hopes to get the first grade.

There are certain things that must be perfect in the school so that we can get the charter. The physical equipment must be right, the teachers must have certificates from colleges. The classrooms will be inspected while a class is getting a lesson and various other things will be observed.

This is the first inspection of our school by inspectors of the State of Ohio.

"When we have received our charter we will have it framed and hung in the office," Mr. Rohleder said.

A Plea For A Second Armistice

By ANNA MARIE FISCHER

As another Armistice Day has rolled around, we have found the world still in the midst of a war.

It seems that it's just human nature to be constantly fighting. Someone is always wanting what he doesn't have.

But here in America, we are just a little bit luckier than some people. In distance we're far from the war, and we hope we'll not be drawn into it.

If other people want to fight, let them, we don't have to. We'll do our bit by hoping that there will be a second Armistice Day soon.

Set A Good Example

By DOT ARLIN

When a student enters Junior High as a seventh grader he says to himself, "Gee, I can't wait until I'm in the ninth grade." We all said that and we looked up to the ninth graders, trying to act as they did, and following their examples.

Now some of us have reached that grade and we are proud of it. Instead of our looking up there are all new seventh graders that are looking up to us.

We must set a good example for them and act our age. In study halls we should show them that we know how to conduct ourselves.

(This book isn't ready for use yet, but will be on the shelves soon.)

Serena Page McNeil was the "least'un" of a family of five children. Whenever anything important happened to her, something more important happened to some other member of the family. When she graduated from high school with honors, sister Alison was coming home with her three children and mother and Robin (Page's brother) had to go to New York to meet them.

She had worked all through high school and for a hot summer month to pass her college boards, hoping to win a scholarship at Van Welmar, a college in the North that offered special courses in art. When she missed the scholarship, the whole family was too upset over Robin's failure to pass his bar exam to pay any attention to her.

When she was taking her college boards, she went to Exeter for about three days to take exams. All the long hours she suffered with English, mathematics, history and Latin are worth reading about.

With all five children at home, there was much bustle and confusion around the MacNeil household. On top of all this, Jean decided to get married. There were parties every few days for her, gifts coming, the making of her trousseau, and the many other little details that have to be attended to when there is a marriage. The food for the reception was to be furnished by the Matty Bissell Circle of the church. (Page's father called them the Batty Missells.)

Last, but not least, the loyal MacNeils pooled their resources to send Page to Van Welmar where she had a chance to improve her artistic talent.

School keeps — rain or shine. When there's mud on the school grounds, and slush puts a crimp in your winter fun, you must have a pair of the new military boots to fit over your shoes to be as dry as a whistle.

Something plaid, please, in a suit or one piece dress.

Slip into a gabardine or flannel blouse with mannish initials, with your favorite skirt or pinafore and you have a tricky wardrobe.

The military trend in coats include an Officer's Reefer tailored in tweed with velveteen collar and a midshipman's shortie of navy chinchilla with flannel lining, red as a fire engine, with brass buttons and a sassy beanie.

The new fluff mittens are lovely to look at for all occasions in all shades to match your outfit.

Wear a string of pearls or one of the new luggage pins with your new mannish sweaters.

With skating time just around the corner, you will look adorable in the new skating dresses. They come in one and two piece and are very attractive in flannel and velveteen lined with bright colors.

One of the outstanding ensembles of this month was worn by a ninth grade girl. The medium green jumper was fitted princess style with a low square neckline and buttons from waist to top in the back. A full-sleeved blouse of brown and white pin striped material gave the outfit a more school girl effect. Over this she wears a tan tweed jacket to school.

Appleseed Scouts Get New Camp

The recent gift of a tract of land to the Boy Scouts of Johnny Appleseed area, by Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Osbon, is worthy of a notice and an appreciation. This land is located on Park Avenue West Road and will be developed by the scouts themselves, in keeping with their scouting program. It is to be made a permanent camp site for the use of various groups and promises to be a real help in carrying on activities. The present camp known as Camp Avery Hand, Jr., has been in use for many years and was made possible through the generosity of Charles F. Ackerman.

However, the growth of scout membership has made further camping space necessary. Every scout, all scout leaders, and those interested in scouting are truly grateful to these Mansfield citizens for making it possible to extend their activities and so give pleasure to more boys.

Mr. Floyd Dent has been scout leader of the area and it has been under his leadership that the program has been expanded to its present state.

Recently Formed Club Has Second Meeting

The second meeting of the "Help One Another" Club was held October 30, in Room 212, and conducted by the president, Hugh Eyerly. The secretary, Joyce Hubbs, read the minutes of the previous meeting.

The club decided to donate a dollar to the Red Cross.

Educators To Visit School To Evaluate Effectiveness

Johnny Appleseed may have some visitors sometime during the week of November 25, when state educators come to Mansfield to evaluate or tell the value of Senior High School. There will be 12 leading men from different parts of the state present.

Mr. W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, said that the school is to be evaluated to attempt to set up the characteristics of a good secondary school, to determine its effectiveness in terms of its objectives, and means by which a good school can be developed into a better one.

Committee members and a number of helpers will inspect the functions of the departments of the school on the basis of standards set up for schools of the same classification.

Mansfield school officials will use the committee's report when it is available later for making recommended improvements.

The department heads who will be in charge of the work are from Ohio State, Kent State, Western Reserve, Toledo and Bowling Green universities. The head of the committee is Dr. D. H. Eikenberry of Ohio State University and F. M. Shelton of the state department of education who will assist the committee.

The superintendent said, "This evaluation should help us to establish our points of weakness as well as strength and assist us in plotting our course for the future."

Library Observes Book Week By Displays and Posters

"If you go down to your town's center and search for its real wealth . . . You pass by the city hall—the stores—the biggest bank . . . And step aside from traffic to a quiet place . . . The library of your town . . . Within its peaceful walls it holds . . . The best that all men have thought and dreamed . . . Since words were first recorded . . . It holds the riches of the world."

'Good Books, Good Friends'

Book Week was first started in 1919 for the purpose of displaying new and interesting books. It was placed in November because November and December will always be the busiest time of the year for the sale of children's books.

The second group was "Waltz in A Flat" by Brahms, "Consolation" by Mendelssohn, "Impromptu" by Strickland.

Following this group, a guest, William F. Klinger, played. The third group was composed of "Allegro di Molto" by Bach, "Prelude in B Minor" by Chopin, "Prelude in D Flat" by Rebe, "Prelude in C Minor" by Chopin.

Another guest, Robert Early, played at this time, after which Lynn played "Minuet A L'antique," by Paderewski, and "Coronation March" by Meyerbeer.

Coach Cameron can't seem to get his mind off politics, so it seems. As he was talking to some of the football players, he called Wilbur Bookwalter "Willkie."

The boys going out for varsity basketball will have time for "free throwing." They will each be allowed 25 free throws a night and the one having the most points at the end of the season will be the champion.

x x x

All those interested in ping pong will get a chance soon. Coach Cameron said everybody wishing to play will sign up; then their names will be mixed up and drawn. The person's name drawn with yours is your opponent.

x x x

The gym floor is getting re-finished so it will be ready for the basketball season. Let's try to keep it nice and shiny, not see how far we can slide on it or how deep we can dig our heel cleats in it. We want to be proud of our gym and the basketball boys would much rather play on a nice, smooth, shiny floor than on a dull, rough, shabby floor. Let us not go on the floor with our street shoes only when there are dances or parties.

Service! Service! That was what the football players yelled in a small lunchroom on the way home from the Sandusky game. It was so accommodating that they had to stand up. Hamburgers were 10c so they ordered hot dogs. The lunch consisted of dogs and soft drinks, but before the players left, they cleaned the lunchroom of cakes, pies, potato chips, and candy.

The intramural basketball games will start soon, Coach Cameron announced. He said that each room will play 13 to 15 games. This will continue all winter. The games will be played at noon and after school. The purpose of the intramural games is to give the boys who like to play basketball and who can't make the varsity, a chance to have some fun playing.

Pioneers Tie Sandusky Team

The Appleseed Pioneers tied a strong Sandusky team in their game Thursday, November 7. Up to this time no other team, including Simpson, whom Sandusky beat 19-6, had been able to tie it.

In the first quarter the Pioneers started off with a kick which was good for about fifty yards. They started marching down the field with two firsts which were made by Bechel, after the Pioneers got control of the ball.

In the second chapter, Sandusky carried the ball from the fifty to the ten. The Pioneers held them for two downs but a play through the center pushed them over for their score. They tried a run for the extra point but were unable to score. The touchdown was made by Mischler, quarterback. Sandusky's punt was returned to the 30 yard line. On the first down, Bechel broke loose for one of his spectacular runs of 70 yards on a reverse play which resulted in a touchdown. The extra point was wide. Appleseed's kickoff was returned to the 45 and Sandusky gained a first down as the half ended.

The third quarter started out as the Sandusky eleven returned the ball to their 35. They felt their way for a first down and then punted, which was returned to their forty. Etzel went his way for 20 yards which made a first down. The Pioneers threatened to score as Bechel ran from the fifteen to the five but the ball was lost on downs.

The fourth period began as Sandusky punted on their thirty-five yard line. Appleseed returned it to their forty-five and a penalty for the Pioneers put it on our forty. On the fourth down, Bechel punted to Sandusky, which was nailed on the five yard line. They gained a first down, but things were spoiled when Kinkle intercepted a pass and ran through the opponents and was brought down on the twenty. Again, they threatened to score but Appleseed fumbled the ball. Sandusky barged to the 50 and two short passes were knocked down by Zeller and Bechel as the game ended.

Pioneers Defeated By Madison, 19-0

The Pioneers were powerless against the heavier Madison line. The score by periods was as follows: First quarter—Madison 7, Appleseed 0; second quarter—Madison 0, Appleseed 0; third quarter—Madison 6, Appleseed 0; fourth quarter—Madison 6, Appleseed 0.

DON'T KNOCK YOUR TEAM!

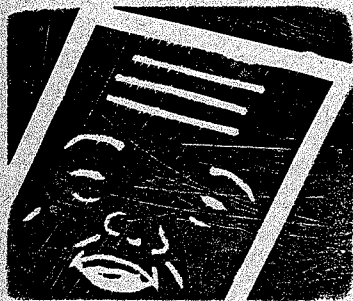

By Bob Black

Just think of all the things boys who go out for football have to put up with. First they go out and run around the ¼-mile track about 3 times to get warmed up; then they go through some stiff blocking and tackling exercises. Then they scrimmage for about 45 minutes; then they run around the track 3 more times and they are ready for the showers. They also have many plays to learn when not practicing.

When they are playing in a game, they are fighting their hardest, yet somebody tries to take the life out of them by calling them names and finding fault with their playing. These grandstand jeerers are doing nothing but insulting the boys and saying they could do better, but these people don't even go out for the team, maybe for fear of getting hurt.

So, give some credit to the boys who went out for football but none to the grandstand jeerer who thinks he's smart!

Locker Laughs

By JANICE SNIDER

My, our seventh graders are modest little people! The other day one of the leaders overheard a discussion between two girls from this grade. One girl said she wished the showers were more private. "It is just like bathing in an ancient Greek public bath house."

There's really a lot of rejoicing since Miss Garner established this new probation rule which permits a girl to remain in the Leaders Club with a "C" on her grade card. The best of us slip sometimes.

Some certain seventh grade girls are going to become very embarrassed if Miss Garner or one of the "Leaders" is forced to give them a bath for not taking a shower.

It's too bad for some people who can't remember their locker combinations, especially when it makes them late to gym classes and they are not chosen among the first for a volleyball team.

HEALTH CLASSES HOLD SERIES OF STUDIES

The health classes this year study a series of different subjects.

The seventh grade classes are studying good grooming and care of the body.

The eighth grade is studying posture and how to maintain good posture. A little later, they will engage in postural exercises.

The ninth grade is studying artificial respiration, and principles of first aid.

Girls Participate In Tournaments

There are three major games in this season's intramural program. They are volleyball, bounce ball, and soccer.

There are six volleyball teams playing a round robin tournament. Each team will play five games. The team which wins the most games will be the champion.

The volleyball team standings up to date are as follows:

Name	Won	Lost
Volleyettes	3	0
Servers	2	1
Netters	0	3
Spikers	1	1
Co-ops	1	2
Speedsters	1	1

The bounce ball teams playing in the tournament are: Crimson Tide, Rebels, Huskies, Mules, Owls, Violets, Green Wave, Big Red, Yellow Jackets, Blue Streaks.

From the games which they have played, the Crimson Tide, Mules, Green Wave, and Yellow Jackets have not been defeated.

The soccer games have all been postponed due to wet fields, and cold weather.

The referees and scorers are Leaders working for their letters in G.A.A.

Janitors 'Dress Up' Gymnasium Floor

Starting November 4th, and until November 9, the gymnasium was closed for remodeling and cleaning. The janitors were working hard removing rubber burns which were caused by being on the floor without gym shoes. A solution called "Tempt" was put on the floor and then it was varnished.

The physical education classes were engaged in ping pong and shuffleboard while the gym was not in use.

Students should be careful not to go on the floor without gym shoes.

MISS ELLEN E. GARNER

Miss Ellen E. Garner, girls' athletic adviser and instructor, graduated from Ohio State University. Miss Garner has spent much time in summer camps. She taught water sports, riding and crafts at Camp Wildwood, Columbus, Ohio, for three years and two years at Camp Sandusky at Tiffin, Ohio. She was director of Girl Scout Camp, Bellevue, Ohio, for one year, and assistant director of Camp Frederickson, Coshocton, Ohio.

She had taught in Bellvue High School before entering Appleseed. Her last two summers were spent working on her Master's Degree at Ohio State University.

She is looking forward to a promising year at Appleseed. "If future activities produce the same spirit and enthusiasm as the fall activities have shown, there will be no doubt in my mind but that the Appleseed girls will have enjoyed as one the genial sportsmanship and cooperation desired in all groups."

Girl Leaders Club Elects New Officers

The Appleseed Girl Leaders Club met Wednesday, October 30, for an election of officers. The new president is Mary Alice Spring, 9B-7 student of room 211. The vice president is Mary Margaret Young, and secretary-treasurer, Dorothy Arlin. These girls will lead the club this year under the supervision of Miss Garner.

This year, the club has established a new probation rule which permits a girl to remain in the Leaders Club with a "C" on her grade card, providing she makes it up the next term. The rule was announced by Miss Garner and was approved by the majority of votes from the leaders.

Girls Learn Modern Methods Of Cooking and Sewing

Home Economics, both sewing and cooking, seem much more important since we have almost all new equipment and all new surroundings. This is the first year we could really start right and have a schedule the same all the way through.

Miss Gant, the instructor in sewing, is teaching only the eighth grade. Since the classes meet for one double period a week, many things can be accomplished. Miss Gant's chief aim is to have her pupils take a stronger interest in sewing and learn to sew for themselves. The girls who have never sewed before started on towels and the slightly skilled ones made aprons. The more skillful ones are making skirts and a few housecoats. The girls have their own selections; and blouses are to be made later in the year.

Miss Tucker is the instructor for seventh and ninth grade cooking. The ninth graders will switch to sewing in the second term. Although the seventh graders have completed a great deal, they are cooking only once a week. Most of the girls have never cooked before and the beginning is sometimes simple. Miss Tucker's aim is to create an interest for cooking and to learn better methods.

The ninth grade class meets every day and for them it is a major subject. Much more can be accomplished and lessons are more extensive.

Pictures On Page 13 Described

After lunches, most of the leftovers are put in the refrigerator, as the first picture shows. Already, it has accumulated bits of many things, such as jelly and meats. So as not to let them spoil, every now and then a leftover luncheon is served by and for the home economics girls. Pictured putting a bowl of conserve in the refrigerator is Doris Beer, ninth grader.

Color schemes must be right in order to have an effective creation when the sewer is through. Miss Gant is shown in the next picture giving pointers to Lois Scarbrough and Jane McCoy, eighth graders.

A device recently brought into the laboratory was an electric mixer. It proved very useful when the ninth grade class was baking angel food and yellow sponge cakes. Although it looked very easy at first, a small amount of skill was needed to use it at the right speed. Pictured using the mixer are Maryalice Spring and Helen Buchan.

Sewing with wrinkled material is too hard to do and it can be pressed so easily. Hilda Grumet is shown pressing an unfinished skirt so she can estimate its fullness and length more easily. Adequate ironing boards and irons are found in the sewing room and also a sleeveboard made by Mr. Hostetler for the eighth grade classes.

Many teachers and guests of the pupils have dined and visited in the home economics dinette. While the ninth grade girls were studying dinners and luncheons, the dinette was used almost every day. The food was prepared in the classes, then reheated at noon so the girls could eat their lunches in the food laboratory or the dinette. In the center on the opposite page, three of the ninth grade girls demonstrating its use are Maryalice Spring, Joan Linkhart and Betsy Champion.

One thing eighth graders must learn to do is to sew straight seams. Many girls are making skirts and we see Anne Ford doing the sewing, Miss Gant instructing, and Marjorie Shoup watching for some points to practice herself. Anne is shown using the electric sewing machine. A different skill must be practiced to be able to use

+ Home Economics In the Modern Trend +

The above pictures were all taken by Mr. Davis, our school photographer, showing the various activities in the modernly equipped home economics department of our new school. The different scenes are explained in detail in the article on the opposite page, with a brief description of this branch of our school.

Girls Learn Modern Methods Of Cooking and Sewing

Home Economics, both sewing and cooking, seem much more important since we have almost all new equipment and all new surroundings. This is the first year we could really start right and have a schedule the same all the way through.

Miss Gant, the instructor in sewing, is teaching only the eighth grade. Since the classes meet for one double period a week, many things can be accomplished. Miss Gant's chief aim is to have her pupils take a stronger interest in sewing and learn to sew for themselves. The girls who have never sewed before started on towels and the slightly skilled ones made aprons. The more skillful ones are making skirts and a few housecoats. The girls have their own selections; and blouses are to be made later in the year.

Miss Tucker is the instructor for seventh and ninth grade cooking. The ninth graders will switch to sewing in the second term. Although the seventh graders have completed a great deal, they are cooking only once a week. Most of the girls have never cooked before and the beginning is sometimes simple. Miss Tucker's aim is to create an interest for cooking and to learn better methods.

The ninth grade class meets every day and for them it is a major subject. Much more can be accomplished and lessons are more extensive.

Pictures On Page 13 Described

After lunches, most of the leftovers are put in the refrigerator, as the first picture shows. Already, it has accumulated bits of many things, such as jelly and meats. So as not to let them spoil, every now and then a leftover luncheon is served by and for the home economics girls. Pictured putting a bowl of conserve in the refrigerator is Doris Beer, ninth grader.

Color schemes must be right in order to have an effective creation when the sewer is through. Miss Gant is shown in the next picture giving pointers to Lois Scarbrough and Jane McCoy, eighth graders.

A device recently brought into the laboratory was an electric mixer. It proved very useful when the ninth grade class was baking angel food and yellow sponge cakes. Although it looked very easy at first, a small amount of skill was needed to use it at the right speed. Pictured using the mixer are Maryalice Spring and Helen Buchan.

Sewing with wrinkled material

is too hard to do and it can be pressed so easily. Hilda Grumet is shown pressing an unfinished skirt so she can estimate its fullness and length more easily. Adequate ironing boards and irons are found in the sewing room and also a sleeveboard made by Mr. Hostetler for the eighth grade classes.

Many teachers and guests of the pupils have dined and visited in the home economics dinette. While the ninth grade girls were studying dinners and luncheons, the dinette was used almost every day. The food was prepared in the classes, then reheated at noon so the girls could eat their lunches in the food laboratory or the dinette. In the center on the opposite page, three of the ninth grade girls demonstrating its use are Maryalice Spring, Joan Linkhart and Betsy Champion.

One thing eighth graders must learn to do is to sew straight seams. Many girls are making skirts and we see Anne Ford doing the sewing, Miss Gant instructing, and Marjorie Shoup watching for some points to practice herself. Anne is shown using the electric sewing machine. A different skill must be practiced to be able to use the electric sewing machine intelligently. The girls alternate in the use of the machine.

Below, the center, three of the unfinished skirts being made by eighth grade girls are shown by Naomi Zediker, Betty Hassinger and Jean Rupp.

Betty Constance is shown modeling her incompleated housecoat in front of the mirror in the dressing room. The housecoat is one of many being made by the eighth grade girls. The fashions are not hard to make, but seem a great task to us beginners.

Our Turkey

By MARILYN LARSON

Out in the barnyard he was so much fun,
Picking and pecking till day was done.
We wanted to have him for Thanksgiving dinner,
But to kill him, we thought, would make us a sinner.
We didn't want to cook him, but knew that we should,
For Thanksgiving dinner would have to be good.
Then the day before Thanksgiving, I went out to look,
To see if our turkey was still in his nook.
But, Lo and Behold! When I came to the pen,

He was not in the place where he should have been.
I looked through the barn and fields of all kind,
But still my turkey I could not find.
To lose our pet made us ever so sad.
But to have to have chicken made us all the more mad.
Then Thanksgiving Day, with the chicken all cooked,
I went out to the haystack, and then when I looked
There sat our turkey, as proud as could be,
For under her wing were some little turkeys.

Our America

By HELEN McCRACKEN

We should give thanks every day in the year
Because life in America is full of cheer.
No dictators to tell us what to do
No guards to stand over you.
You may do as you please,
And live in ease
In America, the land of the free.

Thanksgiving In a Democracy

By BOB CUPP

The same blessings for which our Pilgrim Fathers gave thanks so long ago, are still ours today—the freedom to live and worship as we see fit. The privileges were theirs because they had suffered every hardship in their determination to overcome the difficulties in their paths to a freer life.

So today, we, as descendants of these pioneers, are living in a Democracy which would seem wonderful to them. The principles for which they sacrificed are the same that we are now struggling to keep alive—the rights of a truly democratic government.

We can be sincerely thankful this year, as never before, for all the benefits of our country and we should show our appreciation for the things that so many nations are not enjoying today.

Thanksgiving

By BOB CUPP

One day is not enough for giving thanks
For all we find in life
that's good and true.
If we could count our blessings one by one,
Thanksgiving Day would last the whole year through.

Francis McCarrick eating pancakes prepared by seventh grade girls. The syrup has also been made. The syrup server is only one of the many smaller devices. For seventh graders, the pancakes, waffles, or whatever is made, are eaten in the last part of the double period. One good thing, the girls do not have to eat what they make. Sometimes it's just as well.

Seventh grade work in home economics is not as extensive as the ninth grade, but the things the seventh graders make can compare. Miss Tucker is shown helping Marjorie Carver mix a batter for pancakes while Hazel James looks on. Miss Tucker is always ready to help, but some things we must do for ourselves to learn. In the background is the recipe for pancakes.

With his hair colored yellow,
Wears a grin that is cute,
And sometimes a gym suit
The next hint tells the most:
For we all call him "Coach!"

Exchange News

By JOYCE HUBBS

Among the papers received this month was the "Washington Hi Lights," which is published in Honolulu. Students at Washington High are looking forward eagerly (?) to the next six weeks, because the boys are going to take a course in home economics, while the girls spend six weeks in the shop, studying carpentering. Even the names of the pupils on the staff are interesting: Leimona Cathcarty, Mitsuioyo Koboyashi, and Thoso Kakenaka are a few of the more Oriental ones.

We see by the "Hypho" that out of 13 persons on the 10-B Honor Roll, 7 were from Appleseed.

Although we don't regularly exchange, we do have a copy of the "Ohio Penitentiary News." Did you know that dog tags, which are sold in 88 counties are produced in the penitentiary machine shops? The record production for one day is 7000 tags. The largest orders for these tags comes from Cuyahoga County.

Front page news in this month's "Simpson Times" is the "Hillbilly Hop" which was planned by the Simpson G.A.A. It was scheduled for Friday, November 8. Prizes were awarded to the best dressed hillbilly and hillbilly couple. Also featured in the "Times" is the report of the presentation of a new American flag to Simpson by the American Legion. This is a ninth grader who is in 211. She's tall and has nice curly black hair. She takes home economics and is a swell cook. She has a boy friend who plays football and is in 104. He likes her cooking and he lets her ride his bike home after school. She is a reporter on the staff, belongs to the Girls' Leaders Club, G.A.A., works in the library, sings in the Junior Choir of the First Methodist Church and has a new cocker spaniel called "Tweeter."

Another tall girl with curly black were present at this very impressive ceremony.

From the "Kitten Kapers" column of the "Libby News" comes the following verse:

"Whatever trouble Adam had,
No man in days of yore
Could say when Adam told a joke
I've heard that one before."

hair. She is in 104 and can never make up her mind about a boy friend. She likes to go to the football games and had a very good time after the Johnny Appleseed-John Simpson game. She is a first class Scout in Troop Eight. She goes to Canton every week end and her folks own a cabin outside of town. She likes to receive letters and also has a cocker spaniel called "Smudgy."

This boy is very popular around school and he is in 213. He is a star in basketball, track and football. He was seen hopping around on crutches for a while due to an injury he received in the Johnny Appleseed-John Simpson football game. He is captain of the football team and well liked by the boys. He belongs to the First Methodist Church and has no hobbies that he can think of.
